Color, direction, quantity, intensity, movement and even the absence of light have long been known to have a major effect on our moods, our mental ability, and our general well-being.

With The Beckett Project, Dr. Laura Jones and her theatrical colleagues at CSU and Bas Bleu Theatre Company will conduct creative research trials on the juxtaposition of light and dark in the staging of selected works by Nobel Prize-winning author Samuel Beckett.

Dr. Jones pairs Rough for Theatre II with Play and A Piece of Monologue with her own adaptation of Beckett's non-dramatic short story Ill Seen Ill Said. And Wendy Ishii, Bas Bleu's artistic director, will be reprising her signature role as Winnie in the internationally critically-acclaimed CSU/Bas Bleu collaboration Happy Days, which is quintessentially Beckett – frightening yet absurdly funny.

Audiences complete the final step in the creative process as they share their own reactions and reflections through blogs, post-show talk-backs, and panel discussions. SEE LECTURE INFORMATION.
